

A Workplace Benefit That Works: Financial Planning for Key Executives

In the war for talent, compensation and benefits programs have grown more robust and more complex.

Do your key employees understand and value all that your compensation and benefit programs offer?

For over 45 years, we have partnered with human resource professionals to be a trusted resource for their key employees through formal financial planning engagements paid for by the company.

AMG advisors become experts on the details and intricacies of your compensation plans. They help to educate and encourage employee adoption of benefit programs that fit their needs.

AMG advisors help your key employees to generate the wealth that creates long-term financial security and peace of mind. During uncertain times or through life events such as divorce or the death of a loved one, this advice is especially valued. AMG advisors help your key employees make timely financial decisions to keep their focus on your business, lessen disruption, and improve their health and wellbeing by lowering stress.
